After the last frost, plant so the top of the bulb is 2" to 3" deep in sunny garden soil. Before the first frost, dig out bulb and store in a cool, dark place; replant in the spring.

After the last frost, plant so the top of the bulb is 2" to 3" deep in sunny garden soil. Before the first frost, dig out bulb and store in a cool, dark place; replant in the spring.
After the last frost, plant so the top of the bulb is 2" to 3" deep in sunny garden soil. Before the first frost, dig out bulb and store in a cool, dark place; replant in the spring.
After the last frost, plant so the top of the bulb is 2" to 3" deep in sunny garden soil. Before the first frost, dig out bulb and store in a cool, dark place; replant in the spring.
After the last frost, plant so the top of the bulb is 2" to 3" deep in sunny garden soil. Before the first frost, dig out bulb and store in a cool, dark place; replant in the spring.
After the last frost, plant so the top of the bulb is 2" to 3" deep in sunny garden soil. Before the first frost, dig out bulb and store in a cool, dark place; replant in the spring.
After the last frost, plant so the top of the bulb is 2" to 3" deep in sunny garden soil. Before the first frost, dig out bulb and store in a cool, dark place; replant in the spring.
After the last frost, plant so the top of the bulb is 2" to 3" deep in sunny garden soil. Before the first frost, dig out bulb and store in a cool, dark place; replant in the spring.
After the last frost, plant so the top of the bulb is 2" to 3" deep in sunny garden soil. Before the first frost, dig out bulb and store in a cool, dark place; replant in the spring.
After the last frost, plant so the top of the bulb is 2" to 3" deep in sunny garden soil. Before the first frost, dig out bulb and store in a cool, dark place; replant in the spring.
After the last frost, plant so the top of the bulb is 2" to 3" deep in sunny garden soil. Before the first frost, dig out bulb and store in a cool, dark place; replant in the spring.
After the last frost, plant so the top of the bulb is 2" to 3" deep in sunny garden soil. Before the first frost, dig out bulb and store in a cool, dark place; replant in the spring.
After the last frost, plant so the top of the bulb is 2" to 3" deep in sunny garden soil. Before the first frost, dig out bulb and store in a cool, dark place; replant in the spring.
After the last frost, plant so the top of the bulb is 2" to 3" deep in sunny garden soil. Before the first frost, dig out bulb and store in a cool, dark place; replant in the spring.
After the last frost, plant so the top of the bulb is 2" to 3" deep in sunny garden soil. Before the first frost, dig out bulb and store in a cool, dark place; replant in the spring.
After the last frost, plant so the top of the bulb is 2" to 3" deep in sunny garden soil. Before the first frost, dig out bulb and store in a cool, dark place; replant in the spring.